SHE SUES ON A CORSET AD.

New York Sun.

Helen Grantley, described by her counsel, Leon Laski, as a member of one of the first families of Virginia, saw an advertisement in the Herald of May 12, a picture of a woman wearing a corset and very few other things and declares that the face of the woman is her face, but not the figure. Accordingly she has brought suit in the Supreme Court against Weingarten Brothers, advertisers of the corset, for $50,000 damages.

The advertisement, Miss Grantley said, consisted of a three-quarter size picture of a woman in a partial state of undress, being clothed so that her arms were bare, and her underskirt and corsets were visible and exposing parts of her bosom, which picture included the head and face of the plaintiff herein, and which picture was intended to and did convey to the public the idea or impression that it was a picture of the plaintiff herein, taken in such state of undress."

Miss Brantley who said that the use of her picture was "knowingly malicious, illegal, unwarranted and without authority," and brought her into "public hatred, ridicule and contempt, leading persons to believe that she posed for such picture in such state of undress."

She asserted that such publication had caused her to suffer a severe nervous shock and great mental anguish, and she was greatly humiliated by scoffs and jeers of persons who recognized her face in the afore mentioned picture.

THE CONTRACT IS NOW SIGNED.

GREENSBORO IS TO HAVE ELECTRIC STREET RAILWAY.

The City to Have 100 Lights Instead of 65, and 25 of Them to Burn All Night—Water and Light Commission Sign the Contract.

The Water and Light commission met yesterday afternoon to go over the contract proposition offered the city by the Greeensboro Electric Company. This commission is composed of Alderman Sergeant and Merrimon and Gen. J. D. Glenn. Mr. R. R. King appeared before them and offered to furnish the lights and pump the water under a contract similiar to the one offered by the Greensboro Electric Company, for $9,000. Mr. Z. V. Taylor, in behalf of his company, offered to do it for the same figures. Mr. King, in behalf of the present company, then offered to do it for $8,900. The proposition of Mr. Taylor's company was accepted, the other company not being prepared to operate a street railway. The city attorney is now at work on the contract, making the necessary changes and seeing that no flaws exist, and as soon as he gets through, it will be properly signed by the Water and Light Commission and the mayor.

THE ENTERPE CLUB

The last week of work for the Euterpe Club was filled with much pleasure and bright prospects for next year.

The club was most charmingly entertained last Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Dorsey Hagan in an "At Home" which was particularly happy in its beautiful decorations of pink and white, a game of musical conundrums and much enjoyed refreshments.

On Saturday the last business and musical meeting was held at Mrs. Norman Wills', who proved a charming hostess. After a well rendered program from the American composers, cake, ices, and other delicacies were served.

The year has been a very successful one in the work done and the interest manifested by all the members and next year promises to be no less productive. Instead of holding their annual musical in June as they had hoped the Club decided to give it next fall.

A BAD MAN

Resists and Fights an Officer, But Will Have His Fun to Pay For.

Pat Gibson, white, was tried before Justice of the Peace Eckel yesterday afternoon, charged with the larceny of $5, carrying concealed weapons, and resisting and fighting an officer in the discharge of his duty. He was convicted in all three counts, and was bound over to court in the sum of $150 in each case. Being unable to furnish the bail, he was remanded to jail. He is from somewhere in the neighborhood of Proximity, and is known as a desperate character.

Attending Commencement.

Mrs. A. G. Click, of Elkin; Mrs. J. S. Westbrook, of Faison; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Moore, of Washington, and Mr. Marvin Nash, of Washington, are in the city attending the Greensboro Female College Commencement.

GUILTY OF ATTEMPT TO BRIBE.

SO SAYS JUDGE BROWNE IN STATESVILLE COURT.

Gorham Fined $50 and Sentenced to 20 Days in Jail—Brown Fined $50—Ramsey Sentenced to 20 Days in Jail—The Case Appealed.

The following account of the proceedings in the Stateville court yesterday is taken from the Statesville correspondence of the News and Observer:

Statesville, N. C., May 27.—At 5 o'clock this afternoon Judge Brown rendered his judgment in the contempt proceedings here. He discharged respondents Deaton, one of the jurors, and Lawyer L. C. Caldwell, and found Respondents J. A. Gorham, law agent of the Southern Railway, J. H. Brown, one of the jurors, and R. A. Ramsey guilty for a contempt of court.

Brown was fined fifty dollars, Ramsey was sentenced to twenty days in jail and Gorham was fined fifty dollars and sentenced to twenty days in jail. Judge Brown held that the respondents were entitled to appeal which all three did. They were each required to give bond in the sum of two thousand dollars for appearance at the November term of court, and the bonds were promptly given.

At the opening of court this morning respondents' answers were read. Respondent Caldwell denied ever talking with any member of the jury about the case. His answer stated that his conversation with respondent Ramsey testified to in affidavits of Brawley, Bowles, and others was in reference to a suit which he, Caldwell, was defending for Ramsey for the recovery of real estate and that the Long case was not mentioned. He denied in detail all of the allegations in the affidavits of plaintiff's witnesses touching any alleged wrong doing on his part. He was corroborated in several particulars by affidavits of H. P. Grier and J. F. Gamble, members of the Iredell bar. Affidavits of a large number of our good citizens testifying to Caldwell's good character were read.

Respondent Ramsey admitted being with R. V. Brawley, who testified in an affidavit Saturday, denied that he talked to him. He said in his affidavit that Brawley was drunk. Two other affidavits were read which said that Brawley was under the influence of liquor.

Respondent Gorham admitted in his answer that Juror Brown had spent the night with him in his room, but he denied having said anything to him about the case. There were several affidavits corroborating him in certain particulars and testifying to his good character. Respondent Brown admitted having slept in Gorham's room but denied any wrong doing. He said the case was not mentioned. The plaintiff then resumed and read the affidavits read Saturday, the substance of which was wired Saturday. There were several affidavits in replication testifying to Brawley's good chaaracter and to the fact that he was not drunk on Friday night. Two citations, those of ex-Marshal T. J. Allison and Alderman C. B. Webb, testified that Ramsey's character is not good. In fact it appears that Brawley was not intoxicated, but pretended to be in order to entrap Ramsey.

Large crowds heard the investigation today. Lawyers Price, Henderson, Gamble and Watson addressed the court. The case has developed much feeling among our people and probably justice would be subserved by the removal of the case to another county for the next trial.

Court adjourned for the term this afternoon.

A Long Trip.

Miss Bessie Eller left this afternoon to attend the marriage of one of her school mates in Blair, Nebraska, her old home. She will spend a month or more visiting friends and relatives in Nebraska, Ohio, and Iowa.

Trimming the Trees.

The trees in front of the Government building were trimmed this afternoon, the lower branches being all lopped off. This was a needed improvement, but the cutting of the trees entirely down would be to destroy the only pretty thing about the building.

NOT HEREDITARY.

London Lancet.

It is now 18 months since the Society for the study of Inebriety appointed a special committee to study the relation of heredity to inebriety. The committee was composed of five physicians two surgeons, a professor of bacteriology, an army surgeon, and five general medical practitioners. Eighteen months have been spent in the investigation. The report of this committee has just beeen published and it is signed by nine of the fourteen members, some of whom have made comments, while one has sent in an indepednent report. The reference to the committee was in these terms; to investigate the conditions under which the tendency of drunkenness is capable of transmission to offspring. It does not appear to be contended that inebriety is in itself hereditary, but that a capacity or tendency to it is heritable.

The report declares that the inebriety of an individual depends upon three conditions—the first being an inborn capacity for enjoying the sensations which alcohol produces, and the second and the third being acquired—personal experiences of the pleasures of alcohol and the increased delight which continued indulgence confers in the case of the inebriate. That one drunken generation often succeeds another suggest a hereditary taint. The committee adds that there is no evidence that acquired characters of any kind are heritable. This appears to have been a much debated question.

Popular opinion has taken for granted characteristics of uu nunununununu parents are likely to be inherited and of course, temperance reformers, well-meaning, but often ignorant and misguided,have not been slow to urge upon the public that each man's drinking is pretty sure to produce for him a generation of children who will become drunkards. If this be not true the temperance reformer (who is generally in favor of entire abstinence rather than of temperance) must bear a heavy responsiblity for the large amount of mental torture which he has inflicted on the moderate drinking citizen.

The last words of science, however, as declared by teachers of physiology, biology and botany, is a very definite assertion that no instance of the hereditary transmission of an acquired characteristic has ever been demonstrated either in the animal or the vegetable knigdom. If this be a fact a man can only transmit to his son the hereditary taint with which he was born, and if a man having no inborn tendency to excess yet acquires drunken habits his progeny are in no more dangen than are those of his neighbor, leaving out of consideration the effect of environment of youth. It is not denied that drunken parents who become thus mentally and physically weak are liable to have children who are degenerate—weak in body and feeble in mind; such persons, in fact, as under unpropitious circumstances tend to become paupers, criminals, epilentics and drunkards. The point which is denied in that the drunkard's children has the specialized tendency to become inebriate rather than vicious in some other direction.

It seems probable that the question of environment is of more importance after all than that of heredity, and a man of strong will is just as likely to exercise it in the gratification of his desires as in the contrary direction. If a man of powerful will finds that alcohol gives him pleasure he will take good care to repeat the experience. The habitual drinker is one to whom alcohol brings enjoyment, either as positive pleasure or as cessation of pain, whereas the volutary abstainer is one, who, from constitutional peculiarity, finds little pleasure in alcohol exhilaration. Alcohol weeds out from every race the individuals who most enjoy and indulge in it. The races of southern Europe who have had the longest experience of alcoholic drinks are now more temperate than the British, the Scandinavians and the Russians.

The committee is of the opinion that the contined abuse of alcohol tends to render a race less innately prone to inebriety than it would otherwise have been, this result being brought about by the elimination of the drunken unfit and the survival of those with a weak tendency to alcoholism.

Skin Diseases

ECZEMA, TETTER, PSORIASIS, SALT RHEUM, ACNE and a great many other diseases of like character are classed as skin diseases, when they could just as properly be called blood diseases, for they undoubtedly originate in the blood, like Cancer, Catarrh, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Contagious Blood Poison, etc.; the only real difference being in the intensity and nature of the poison. The more serious diseases, Cancer, Catarrh, etc., are caused by some specific poison or virus, which is either inherited or in other ways gets into the blood and attacks certain vital organs or appears in the form of terrible sores and ulcers, while the milder and less dangerous skin diseases are caused by blood humors or an over acid condition of that fluid. These acid poisons, as they ooze out through the pores of the skin, cause great irritation, with intense itching and burning. The eruption may be of a pustular kind, with excessive discharge of thick, gummy fluid, or the skin may be hot, dry and feverish, swollen and fissured. Skin diseases, whether they appear as sores, blotches or pimples, become more deeply rooted and intractable the longer neglected, the skin in time having a thick, hard, rough and unsightly appearance. You can hide the blemishes for a time with cosmetics; and washes, lotions, soaps and powders may relieve temporarily the itching and burning, but eventually the pores of the skin become so clogged up by this treatment that the poisonous matter thrown off by the blood cannot pass out of the system, and settles on the lungs, heart or some other vital organ and endangers life.

I can cheerfully and most sincerely endorse your specific as a cure for Eczema, the most irritating and annoying disease, I think, that flesh is heir to. I was troubled with it for twenty-five years, and tried many remedies with no good effect. After using your medicine a short time I think I am entirely relieved. You can give this statement any publicity you may desire, as it is voluntarily made, more for those afflicted than notoriety for myself.

Very respectfully,
WM. CAMPBELL,
318 West Central. Wichita, Kans.

To purify and build up the polluted blood is the right treatment for skin diseases, and for this purpose no other medicine is so deservedly popular as S. S. S. It is a perfect antidote for all blood humors, and when taken into the circulation, gently but thoroughly eliminates all impurities and puts the blood in a healthy, normal state. The skin can't remain in an irritated, diseased condition when nourished with rich, new blood. S. S. S. is the only guaranteed purely vegetable remedy, and the safest and best skin beautifier. Write our physicians if you have any blood or skin disease, and they will cheerfully advise you without charge.

Remains of Prehistoric People Found Near an Extinct Volcano in an Unknown Region.

A party of archaeologists and antiquarians have made important discoveries in the hitherto unexplored region at the northern limit of the Harqua Hala range of mountains in Arizona. A great desert and the total absence of water have prevented any previous examination, and only the Indians know of the curiosities of these mountains, says the New York Sun.

One side of one mountain rises in terraces, and presents many features recalling the Grand canyon of the Colorado. The whole mass is of obsidian, or volcanic glass, and glitters in colors of green, blue and black. It may be seen on clear mornings at great distances and the glitter of the mountain has lured many travelers in its direction.

The exploring party found under a high shelving rock a narrow necked olla, or earthenware jar, bottom side up, containing human bones, a broken hammer and a metate, or stone employed by the prehistoric races of Arizona probably for the same purposes as a similar utensil is used by the aborigines of to-day for grinding maize. Slabs, turquoise stones and other curiosities were revealed by digging, and there were marks on buried rocks which were supposed to be inscriptions. A careful study of the curiosities was not made, but another party will be organized for the purpose of unearthing all available relics in the mountain and to study them.

The mountain of glass is a marvel of volcanic upheaval. It is pretty much as the last eruption left it, except that where fractures have occurred the varied and beautiful colors of the volcanic glass are brilliantly reflected. The mountain is dangerous and difficult of ascent, owing to the precipitous terraces and the ice-like smoothness of the surface.

WINE OF CARDUI

A SURE MEDICINE.

HANDSOM, VA., Dec. 31.

I have been suffering from female weakness for four years, and have taken many medicines, but Wine of Cardui and Black-Draught have done more for me than anything else.

MRS. CAROLINE EVANS.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

It is a mistake to take any and every kind of medicine when you are sick. There is danger in it. Most of the so-called cures for "female weakness" do nothing more than deaden the pain temporarily, and when the effect wears away the patient is weaker and sicker than before. It is never wise to take chances. You have only one life, and that is dear and precious. If you have any pain, ache, disorder or weakness in the feminine organs, nothing will help you like Wine of Cardui. It helps do away with morning sickness during the early stages of pregnancy, and modifies the pains of childbirth; recovery is rapid and future health is assured. The Wine is purely vegetable, being made of herbs whose medicinal properties act directly upon the organs of womanhood. It is a long-tried remedy, and has many years of success behind it. It is sure. Why take a chance medicine when you can get a sure medicine?

TUESDAY, MAY 28.

The following from the Norfolk Landmark speaks for itself and creditably for North Carolina. It were well that the Old Dominion profit by this comparison in her Constitutional Convention:

Our esteemed contemporary, the Salem Times-Register, after reproducing one of Judge Mullen's letters on the comparative governmental expenses of Virginia and North Carolina, says editorially with regard to the letters:

"Read it, and if his statements are true (and nobody has yet been found to deny them) let's hear less about the comparison between these states that is so detrimental to our own."

As the Landmark has pointed out, Judge Mullen's own figures prove that in the year 1900 (the last covered by official reports) the combined State and County taxes in Virginia exceeded the combined State and County taxes of North Carolina by the tremendous sum of $1,500,000.

There is only one deduction whose fairness we are willing to admit. The State debt of Virginia costs about $500,000 a year more that North Carolina's and this cannot be helped. Deduct the $500,000, and you have Virginia's State and County government costing $1,200,000 a year more than North Carolina's; whereas North Carolina has more area and more population. So far as we can see, North Carolina gets just as satisfactory general results with twelve hundred thousand dollars a year less expense.

By way of demonstrating that North Carolina is not the only State with which Virginia compares unfavorably in the matter of taxation, we recently referred to the official records of Tennessee. Although Tennessee, like North Carolina has more area and more people than Virginia, government expense in Tennessee in 1899 and 1900 was (after allowing for the difference in State-debt outlay) about $1,000,000 per annum less than in Virginia. When the Constitutional Convention meets, such indisputable facts as these will be fully discussed, and the Times-Register will probably hear a good deal more about the comparison between these States that is so detrimental to our own."

SINGS ANOTHER TUNE.

The Baltimore Sun has the following editorial on the question of the tariff:

Both Great Britain and the United States object to an increase of customs taxes by China as a means of raising money to pay the indemnity which the powers demand from the Chinese government. It is easy to understand the British objections to higher duties on imports into the Chinese Empire. The The English free-traders have always maintained that tariffs were restrictions upon trade. They have thrown open their own ports to the world and have asked nothing in return except similiar freedom of intercourse with the commercial nations of the world. Our statesmen in Washington have stoutly maintained, however that a tariff is a good thing, especially for Americans. They have insisted that it imposed no additional burdens on the American people because as everybody knows, "the foreigner has been paying the tax" for all these years of tariff extortion by the United States, Now, however, they are undone by their own logic. The American people are building up a trade with China, which the Washington government desires to increase. The powers have assessed an indemnity amounting to $337,000,000 against the Chinese government, and the latter proposes to get money to pay a part of the damages by increased custom duties. Our government sternly refuses to sanction this plan on the ground that it will interfere with American trade with China. The old pretense that "the foreigner pays the tax" has been abandoned, and our manufacturers and government are singing an entirely different tune. "The duties," they say, "will be paid by the Chinese, who, if their taxes are increased, will have less money to spend on American products. Raise the money in any way you please except by a higher tariff. We will not consider for a moment any proposition which will make the Chinaman less able to buy imports from the United States."

It is a pity our protectionists do not have as much consideration for Americans of limited means as they have for the poor Chinese. They have insisted for many years upon reducing the purchasing power of Americans on the false and absurd assumption that the duty was paid by the foreigner. In admitting now that the Chinese buyer bears the burden they give away the whole case for protection. The American objection to a higher tax for China will remain forever as an indictment of our own protective system.

What Could She Do?

By Edward W. Barnard.

If I kissed you would you be in-
  Dignant with me—make resistance?
Blush and blush and order me in
  Tragic tones to keep my distance?"
Break your pretty voice in two
  Calling some one to assist you—
Tell me, sweet, what would you do
  If I kissed you?

If you kissed me I might scold you
  Under some circumstances;
And at more than arm's length hold you
  To discourage your advances,
But if none were near but you
  As at this minute—to assit me,
Tell me, ulease, waht gfgfrar araiod
Tell me, please, what could I do
  If you kissed me?

Professor Crook Again.

Raleigh Post:

Some days ago a Professor Crook, who occupies a "chair" at the University of Chicago, startled the intellecualitites of the nation by gravely announcing that he had never kissed a woman. The "Intellectuals" took up the statement with all seriousness and gave to it as much importance as they could have done had the learned professor gravely confessed that he had been osculating with a cow.

Now another "professor" of the same University, encouraged by the success of his brother in foolishness, has broken loose with a "dictum" concerning hair-dressing wich is about on par with another "dictum" which has recently been brought to light. This particular professor flashes athwart the horizon under the bright name of Star, Frederick being his prefix. He says:

"If a man parts his hair in the middle * * * it is pretty good evidence that there is a degenerate streak in him."

All of which—the missing episode and hair-splitting deliverance—moves the New York Sun to pertinently inquire "Is Dr. Harper keeping a University of a collection of curiosities?"

Probably the "degenerate streak" referred to is the one of which Prof. Crook claims to be innocent, viz, kissing and hugging a pretty girl. These two professors in the Chicago University seem to be pretty well mated, and are a pair to draw to.

A DISCOVERY.

Mr. James R. Coleman, a native of Pittsylvania county, Virginia, was afflicted with indigestion for twelve years; he could eat no solid food without great agony, and could not sleep at night. He was treated by eminent physicians who pronounced his case hopeless. As a last result he began the use of a preparation of his own as an experiment and found relief at once; in six week's time he was able to resume his farm work, a cured man. This was six years ago and he has had no return of the symptoms up to this time.

Mr. Coleman called the remedy 'Coleman's Guarantee," and the results from its use among his friends were so marvelous that The Coleman Remedy Company was formed last year at Danville, Va., for the general sale of the preparation. "Coleman's Guarantee" is sold by druggists at 50c (large) bottles. Ask for booklet telling of many wonderful cures.

It had given such satisfactory results that the name was unanimously selected by the people for the new office and adopted by the department at Washington, D. C.

REV. R. C. BEAMAN'S SERMON.

THIS MORNING AT GREENSBORO FEMALE COLLEGE.

He Gives Good Advice the the Young Ladies About to Leave Their Alma Mater—God Made an Improvement Over Man in Woman—The Recital Last Night.

The Fifty-fifth Commencement of the Greensboro Female College was formally opened last night by the elocution recital given in the college chapel. This department is under the direction of Miss Rachel Sims, and the Recital reflected credit on the participants, their teacher, and the institution.

The program was rendered as printed in The Telegram yesterday. The semi-chorus, "May Song," was well rendered, and elicited hearty applause.

"The Goudalier's Song," a duet by Missess Elma Courtney and Willie Adelaide Click was one of the features of the evening. Miss Courtney's voice is well known in Greensboro, where it often has been heard, and Miss Click has also appeared before audiences in the city. Their singing last night was of a high order and elicited round after round of applause.

Miss Nellie Merrimon recited "Marse Chan," a touching story of the devotion of an old time darkey to his master in the ante-bellum days, and of the devotion of his master to the lady of his heart. The story, under the magic spell of her voice, thrilled and pulsated with life, and swayed the entire audience. She was recalled but only bowed her acknowledgement of the encore.

"Alec Tells a Bear Story," an irrestibly comic recitation, by Miss Bessie Burroughs, kept the house in a continual roar, and brought a storm of applause for her return, but she only bowed her thanks.

This was followed by "Scarf Fantastics" by nine young ladies, dressed in white, and carrying each a short piece of bunting, some white, some red, and others blue. Their groups and poses were very effective, and were much enjoyed.

Dr. Peacock announced that owing to the lateness of the hour, the doors of the art exhibit would not be opened until this morning. The audience was then dismissed with benediction by Rev. J. C. Troy.

The program was opened this morning by the audience singing "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow." This was followed by prayer by Rev. S. B. Turrentine, pastor of the West Market Street church. Hymn No. 4, "Holy, Holy, Holy," was read by Rev. C. L. Whitaker, president of the North Carolina Conference, Methodist Protestant church. This hymn was sung with spirit by the entire audience, led by Prof. Parker, musical director of the college.

Rev. J. R. Scroggs read the Scripture lesson from the twenty-fifth chapter of Matthew, the Parable of the Talents.

Hymn No. 701 was then sung, "Savior Like a Shephard, Lead Us."

The speaker of the hour, Rev. R. C. Beaman, was introduced in a few brief words by President Peacock. Rev. Mr. Beaman took as his text the fourth chapter of Esther and a clause of the 14th verse: "And who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom, for such a time as this."

He said in part: "This is a woman's era. When Christ came woman did not think; she was not allowed to think. Christ brought into her life the privilege of thought Woman's intellectual life is the outbirth of Christ's coming.

"When Christ came woman was a slave, on the same level with the horse. The home was her prison; but since the birth of Christ the world has come to realize that the home is woman's realm.

"Your service, young ladies, begins in the home. The influence of woman in the home in the past, slave though she has been, has been the theme of poets, and a source of inspiration to all mankind. A vulgar woman means a vulgar home life, and a vulgar home life means a vulgar people.

"Behind us lies a mighty century, but the Twentieth is girding itself for a mighty effect to surpass its record.

"Who is to hear and respond to the Macedonian cry that comes to us. This, young woman, is your mission, and it is worthy an archangel.

"Say what we will, man is religiously, just what woman makes him. We call her the weaker vessel, but to her is given the power to lead man back to the faith from which he has wandered.

"It is said that woman is inferior to man, but the Bible does not state it: the law of nature does not allow it: and all history utterly disproves it. God made man, and then he improved upon his work. He made woman.

"It's not woman's business to vote; it's her business to make man capable of voting. She is not called to run the political world, but is called to lift man above his meanness, so that he can run it, without stuffing ballot boxes, and engaging in political dishonesty. You are called to teach the race that character is the highest fame.

"The one thing that God needs today, the one thing that the world needs today, is a generation of women who see the touch of God in everything, in the delicately tinted petals of a rose, the sparkling dew drop upon the violet, and the clustering curls upon the brow of some fair child.

"Society has raised two standards of morals, one for man and the other, infinitely higher, for woman, and a man can sin away his youth, and then lay the remnants of a misspent life at the feet of a pure woman, and ask her to share it with him. I am going now to make a statement that may startle some of you, but it is true nevertheless. It is psycologically impossible for a pure womanly woman to love a man whom she knows to have lived a sinful and vicious life, with the pure love she should bear her husband.

"In conclusion, young ladies, where can you grow character, from whose hand can come the last delicate touch that will make your life a glorious one? I know of but one place in all the world where your life can be shaped into completeness, and that place is at the feet of the man from Galilee, who says, whoso cometh unto me I will in no wise cast him out."

At the conclusion of the sermon, the congregation was led in prayer by Rev. P. J. Carraway.

The congregation then joined in singing "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name," after which Dr. Peacock made the announcements for the afternoon and night sessions, and the audience was dismissed with benediction by Rev. J. M. Huggins.

Tomorrow will be commencement day proper. At 10 o'clock the reading of three essays by three members of the graduating class will take place. This will be followed by the presentation of the diplomas, certificates and Bibles. The program is as follows:

Address at the A. and M.

Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather quite a large audience was present at the A. & M. College last night to witness the closing exercises of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. E. Societies. The program was very excellent. The annual address by Dr. J. D. Chavis, president of Bennet College, was a splendid effort. He had his subject the forces that will win in the twentieth century. Christianity, Education and Money. The Dr. showed that a Christian heart is the basis of great character and that no one can be of any great good to humanity unless he is a Christian. Next he explained the importance of being educated in order to meet the demands of the century. He closed his address by showing that money is a great force in the battle for success; that the great races of the world have become powerful by possessing the three great forces: Christianity, Education and Money, and that the negro race should strive to possess the Almighty Jehovah, Education and the Almighty Dollar. Tonight the closing exercises of the literary societies will be had. The public is invited to attend all of these exercises.

A Dangerous Precedent.

Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Some attention has been called to the fact that the woman's club of North Portsmouth, in this State, is endeavoring to force the constable of the town to wear shoes and stockings. The club has not preferred charges against this official. There appears to be nothing wrong with the administration of his duties; but the ladies insist that his feet must be clothed—in public, at least. Naturally they suggest the establishment of a dangerous precedent. If they can force the stockless Constable to put his official feet into the customary coverings, why can't they, with equal propriety, oblige him to wear a coat and collar—and who would want to wear the collar of a woman's club? Yes, and they might make him don a Tim Woodruff waistcoat, and spats, and golf trousers, and suspenders, and a straw hat with a red band, and a Tuexedo tacket. Why, they might even go so far as to insist upon a monocle.

AN ENTICING ENTREE

Mrs. James Brown Potter Gives Recipe That Pleases Washington.

She Secured the Secret, Also an East Indian Cook, from an Indian Prince on His Native Heath.

A new and enticing entree has made its appearance in Washington. Women are cultivating a fondness for it, men swear by it, and children cry because of it. It was introduced by a woman who claims the world as her home, but who settles in Washington for a short time each winter. This woman obtained the recipe of the entree from Mrs. James Brown Potter, who, in turn, got it from an East Indian nabob.

The secret of its composition was learned in this wise: Mrs. Potter, dining with the Indian prince upon his native heath, was introduced to the famous entree, which, having ravished the palate, went straight to the heart and afterward mounted to the brain of the fair guest. She resolved to cajole the prince into divulging the mystery of the gastronomic triumph, and, summoning her most seductive feminine blandishments, Mrs. Potter gradually approached the subject of the entree. She said:

"Good prince, I fain would learn the magic of the dish. In truth, it hath fired my imagination and wrought havoc in my blood. I pray thee, teach me the mystery of its making that my inner woman may be at peace."

The East Indian, overcome by the charm and beauty of the guest, made haste to reply:

"Ah, certainly. The entree is yours. The secret of its making is yours. Nay, more; the slave that cooked the entree is yours."

And so it happened that the insatiable Cora returned to England with the East Indian cook, whose skill has since made famous the dinners given by that siren of the stage. The charms of the entree have attacked the high livers of Washington with fatal fascination. All hail, then, to the strength of condiment and the skill in cooking and the digestion that is equal to Mrs. Potter's potent entree! The recipe of the dish is herewith printed for the first time:

Make a hot curry of finely minced chicken livers and rice. Sprinkle to the depth of half an inch with freshly grated cocoanut. Cover all with a liberal paste of English chutney. Eat, and know entire happiness.

TO COAL SHIPS AT SEA.

A British Invention Is Said to Be Far Superior to American Methods.

At a meeting of the Thames Iron Works company the other day Hills, the chairman, stated that the company's naval architect had invented a method of coaling vessels at sea, by which it was possible to deliver from 50 to 100 tons per hour, compared with 20 tons by the method invented by Miller, an American. The admiralty, he added, was considering the advisability of adopting the method. Hills also announced the formation of an electrical engineering combination, comprising the Thames iron works, Siemens, Mathers & Platt, and Brush companies, which he was convinced would hold its own against German and American combinations. They had prepared designs for the electrical equipment of the Metropolitan district, the Great Northern and the City railways. They had schemes in hand for railroads from Northeast London to London bridge, and from London bridge to Piccadilly.

China's Awful Famine.

Reports of the famine in Shensi, China, disclose conditions quite as terrible as those which have drawn the charity of the world to India during the last two years. No crops can be expected this year because the time, men and women fall in the fields and are devoured by wild beasts; and while China faces the penalties of the outrages committed by the Boxers against the foreigners, the only hands stretched out to help those starving peasants in Shensi are the hands of foreign missionaries.

Every woman in the country ought to know about

Mother's Friend

Those who do know about it wonder how they ever got along without it. It has robbed childbirth of its terrors for many a young wife. It has preserved her girlish figure and saved her much suffering. It is an external liniment and carries with it therefore, absolutely no danger of upsetting the system as drugs taken internally are apt to do. It is to be rubbed into the abdomen to soften and strengthen the muscles which are to bear the strain. This means much less pain. It also prevents morning sickness and all of the other discomforts of pregnancy.

A druggist of Macon, Ga., says: "I have sold a large quantity of Mother's Friend and have never known an instance where it has failed to produce the good results claimed for it."

A prominent lady of Lamberton, Ark., writes: "With my first six children I was in labor from 24 to 30 hours. After using Mother's Friend, my seventh was born in 4 hours."

ORIGIN OF RAG TIME.

Sousa, the Famous American Bandmaster, Credits It to the Old-Time Western Hoe-Down.

I have read a number of explanations of "rag time" that are mainly interesting because they do not explain, says John Philip Sousa in the New York World. These syncopation of vocal melody is common to all languages and nations having words accented, like "brother," "mother," "liar," "briar."

America undoubtedly has more piano players of the amateur sort than any other country. The imitative quality, together with acuteness of ear, is a common atribute of young people. It is often a matter of wonderment to understand how one of the youngsters will "vamp" an accompaniment to anything and everything. They all "compose," that is, let their fingers fall in pleasant places on the piano keys, from which springs a more or less trite composition, following the popular style of the moment.

To this class, I believe, belongs the credit of originating the words "rag time." Some years ago one of them sung for me a darky song, and after playing a simple accompaniment he said: "I have another accompaniment, a regular rag time," and proceeded to play a syncopated movement of the same melody, in which, to the dominant and tonic chords were added the sixth of the scale, a characteristic of French hurdy-gurdy music.

The movement of the right hand at the piano suggested the rhythm of hand-clapping used in some of our country dances. The common "call" in the "western hoe down"—"Everybody rag"—is probably responsible for the invention of the term "rag time" referred to the accompaniment and not to the tune.

POWER OF BRER SCOTT.

A Southern Negro Preacher Who Wielded Wonderful Influence Over His Flock.

Down in the south of Georgia is a remarkable negro preacher familiarly known as Brer Hamp Scott. His power over his congregation is almost irresistible, and he seems to possess a sort of hypnotic influence which does not detract from his effectiveness. A gentleman who lives in that part of the state tells the Washington Star his experience one evening in the little church in the woods.

The services, which consisted of short talks and prayers, seemed to be about the same as those of any other negro congregation, and I was preparing to make my escape when an old cotton-headed darky started a camp-meeting hymn. He sang in a wailing minor key that went straight to the nerves, and before he got through the first stanza I felt the tension in the atmosphere.

When he ceased, Scott himself jumped up and began to intone another hyma—a typical negro composition, with the refrain: "An' de sinner is a-burnin' in de pit!" When he came to the climax he suddenly straightened up and rolled out the refrain like a clap of thunder. The effect was electrical, and in five minutes half the congregation was on the verge of hysterics.

As the hymn died down Scott took up a sort of chant. All the negroes joined in, and whether it was some monotonous and peculiar quality in the voice of the leaders or the weird surroundings, I can't say, but the chant soon had everybody under its spell.

Some of the darkies fell back, staring and rigid, like cataleptics, and others writhed on the floor, foaming at the mouth and tearing their clothes. Still others wept and shouted, and all the while the chant continued, rising and falling like the wind in the chimney. It was really an appalling spectacle. I have witnessed some wild scenes at negro camp-meetings, but this transcended anything in my experience. I came away while it was at its height, and it was some time before I could shake off its influence.

VICTORIA'S NURSERY RELICS.

When her children were in their short frock and knickerbocker days, the queen made them write a little daily diary of their doings, which she passed upon nightly in the royal nursery. Often the youngsters were hard up for "copy," and used to appeal for help to members of the household. They repaid their helpers by giving them sketches made by themselves, which differed in no way from the dogs and horses and houses of the ordinary child. One of the household, now dead, preserved some 40 or 50 of these alleged drawings, and, not long since, an enterprising magazine made his widow a handsome offer for them, says Herbert M. Lome, in Success. The queen heard of this, and sent for Lady H——.

"Please do not dispose of them," her majesty said; "I cannot bear to think of things that have so many tender and sacred associations passing into hands other than ours."

It need hardly be added that the queen's wishes were honored, and Lady H——, furthermore, gave the album which contained the nursery relics to the mother of the little artists.

SHADE TREES FOR LAWNS.

Some Varieties That Grow Rapidly, Are Pretty and Thrive with Little Care.

The cut-leaved birch is one of the very best trees for small lawns, writes Eben E. Rexford, in Ladies' Home Journal. It is entirely hardy. It is easily transplanted, and it requires as little attention as any tree I know of. And it is very attractive, with its finely cut foliage, which is always bright and healthy, no matter what the season may be. The mountain ash is another good tree for a small place. It is a strong, rapid grower, of utmost hardiness, fully equal to taking care of itself after it gets a start. It has very pleasing foliage, and drooping clusters of scarlet fruit. The Japanese maples are lovely trees, in all stages of growth. Most varieties have delicately cut foliage, a broad, spreading habit, and the merit of rapid growth combined with great hardiness. Some varieties have slender, drooping branches, and make extremely attractive specimens for use on an open lawn where their beauty may be fully displayed. The Negudo or ash-leaved maple (box elder) is of extremely rapid growth, and on this account many persons who are impatient of results select it for lawn use. It is a clean tree, has attractive foliage, is as hardy as an oak, and becomes quite a good-sized and a hardy specimen in five or six years.

Creme a la Normandie.

Put any fish bones you may have into a stewpan with a carrot, turnip, onion and small bouquet of herbs, three or four cloves, a small bottle of white wine, and cover with water or a light stock. Boil and skim well. After boiling about one hour and a half thicken with diluted corn flour. Strain and pass through a hair sieve. Replace the soup on the fire, season to taste and when ready to serve add a mixture of three yolks of eggs, a pat of fresh butter and a gill of cream, all mixed well together. In the soup tureen put a garnish of fillets of soles cut into small squares or rounds, a few blanched tarragon leaves and serve with fried croutons separately.—Washington Star.

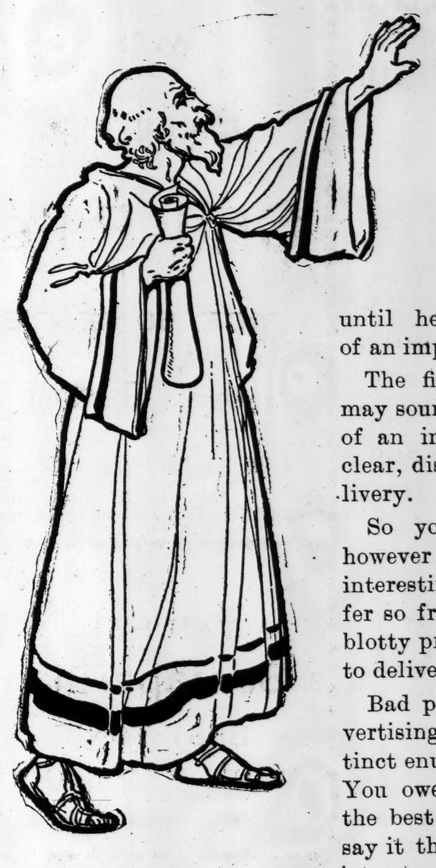
Demosthenes Could Not Speak



until he had cured himself of an impediment in his speech.

The finest flight of oratory may sound like the mumblings of an insane man, without a clear, distinct and forcible delivery.

So your printed message, however important, vital and interesting it may be, can suffer so from slip-shod, careless, blotty printing that it will fail to deliver its message.

Bad printing is to your advertising what defective, indistinct enuciation is to an orator. You owe it to youself to say the best that you have, and to say it the best that you can.

Summer squash will sour before morning and is not worth warming. Winter squash can be made into pies.

Raw tomatoes, after they have been scalded and peeled, spoil quickly, and they should be stewed directly after the meal, then they can be used in soups, gravies and made dishes.

Potatoes, beets, peas and string beans may be served cold with a salad dressing. So also may asparagus, spinach, cabbage, celery and cauliflower, if they have not been served with white sauce.

Green peas, shelled beans, string beans, stewed tomatoes and onions if served again hot, should be warmed quickly, adding a little water if necessary to keep them from burning.

Cooked potatoes admit of such a variety of methods of reserving that not a scrap ever need be wasted. Left over portions of mashed potatoes should be packed closely in a cup or small bowl, directly after the meal, then cut in slices and browned in hot butter or salt pork fat. Or they may be mixed with beaten egg, made into balls and browned in the oven, or used as a crust for a small pie of warmed-over meat or fish.—American Kitchen Magazine.

RAIL AND TIE.

A New England company has turned out an electric car capable of making 65 miles an hour.

The new trans-Siberian railway, when complete, is to be the safest, cheapest and most comfortable in the world. The safety of the Manchurian line will be due to the flatness of the regions traversed, not a single tunnel being necessary between the Ural and the Amour—that is to say, from one end of Siberia to the other.

In the yards of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railway, at Fort Madison, Ia., electricity is used to light the signals. The ordinary switch lamp is used with an eight-candle power incandescent lamp inside fitted to a socket. The current is brought to the signal post or switch stand in underground conduits, and is arranged so as to enter the lamp at the top. The experiment is said to be highly satisfactory, and it does away with lamp tenders. The electric lights are very safe from extinguishment by wind or the jar of a passing train.

WAR NOTES.

The war in South Africa has doomed the highland kilt as a fighting dress and it will now survive as a parade uniform only.

Cordite, the British service smokeless powder, is composed of 58 parts of nitroglycerin, 37 parts of gun cotton and five parts of vaseline.

The amount of powder required to propel a cannon projectile generally equals about half the weight of the missile. A projectile measuring four inches in diameter would require 16½ pounds of powder; five inches, 25 pounds; six inches, 50 pounds; eight inches, 125 pounds; ten inches, 250 pounds, and 12 inches, 425 pounds.

It is a peculiar fact that Lord Kitchener gained his first experience as a soldier under the French flag. At the outbreak of the war in 1870 he offered himself as a volunteer to Gen. Chanzy, commander of the army of the Loire. On returning to England after the fall of Paris he obtained a commission in the Royal Engineers.

What a woman says goes—if she says it in the telephone.

NOT HEREDITARY

In the main, consumption is not hereditary; it is infectious. People are too afraid of heredity; better not think of the subject at all. Infection occurs continually.

Low vital force is hereditary; which gives consumption its chance. And infection plants it.

Between the two, the crop is a big one: about one-sixth of the human race, so far as is known.

We suppose it needn't be 5 per cent, if people would take fair care and Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

The care saves life in all ways; the emulsion is specially aimed at the lungs, beside its general food-effect.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.
